

Media Contact:

Debi Carlston
Director of Marketing
debic@crownairstar.com
(760) 390-7386

Crownair Aviation Takes Business Back to Basics

Crownair Aviation announces change in day-to-day operations and new FAA class ratings

San Diego, Calif.; October 20, 2009... Crownair Aviation, an aviation fuel sales, maintenance and avionics service company, announces their renewed commitment to customers and change in day-to-day operations.

Established in 1951, Crownair is rebuilding their reputation for world class service and customer satisfaction. This year Crownair marked the beginning of a new chapter in their history. With the landscape of business changing, challenging companies to produce more with less, Crownair is dedicated to its customers through a well-defined philosophy. This philosophy integrates enormous industry knowledge and solution development skills, with customer intimacy and a growing enthusiasm to succeed on behalf of the customer - at every level.

"There have been some noticeable changes at Crownair Aviation the past six months. We have faced numerous challenges, but are confident we are starting our rise above them and the temporary economic downturn," added Ray Richmond, the newly appointed general manager of Crownair Aviation. "Our renewed focus will be one of 'back to basics', targeting fundamentals as the key to re-establishing Crownair Aviation as a world-class service organization."

Crownair's commitment extends further than just exemplary service; they have professionally trained technicians with over 20 years of experience, and offer discounted rates when you combine both your maintenance and avionics needs. Combining services lowers costs, increases safety and limits downtime.

In 2008, Crownair Aviation earned FAA Class III and IV maintenance ratings, and is proud to announce they have successfully acquired Class I, II, and III avionics ratings.

Crownair Aviation is also an authorized dealer and service center for many popular airframe and part manufacturers. Not only have they been a long time Mooney and Cirrus Authorized Service Center, Crownair recently became an authorized service center for Raisbeck Engineering, and Blackhawk Modifications, Inc. Crownair Aviation strives to supply aviation products and services tailored to meet the specific and ever-changing needs facing their customers.

This year marks the 58th year of operation for Crownair Aviation. As of August 2009, Ray Richmond, under the direction of Crownair's new executive board, will oversee the day-to-day operations of the company. Together, they are committed to supporting the community and making Crownair Aviation a top competitor in the aviation service industry.

About Crownair Aviation

Crownair Aviation has a history of customer satisfaction that spans more than five decades. Crownair provides a wide range of aircraft services including a dedicated fuel station, pilot and passenger amenities, personalized concierge service, hangar space, and two class-leading maintenance and avionics service centers. As one of the most experienced and respected names on the West Coast, Crownair has been serving the aviation community since 1951 with integrity and professionalism.

Crownair Aviation services single-engine piston through high-end business jet aircraft with full maintenance, avionics equipment upgrades, installation and repair, as well as fuel sales and service. For more information on Crownair Aviation, visit www.crownairaviation.com or call any of our locations:

Crownair Aviation-MYF:	858-277-1453
Crownair Aviation-CRQ:	760-431-5315